

WHY TRUST LINWOOD?

In a season of holiday cheer, we'd like to share a story with a happy ending. A disastrous fire in Alaska has taken a good turn, and a brighter future is being built.

Linwood Custom Homes rendering of new Intricate Bay Lodge, Alaska.

WHAT HAPPENED?

In October, a fishing lodge on Iliamna Lake burned to the ground with all occupants making it to safety. Intricate Bay Lodge is now being recreated on its original site, and will be fully operational in 2014.

WHY LINWOOD?

"The owners of Intricate Bay Lodge felt extremely comfortable to have Linwood lead this project because of Linwood's solid history of designing and building homes, vacation properties and resorts," says Senior Design and Sales Consultant Stan Powers. "We have served Alaska since our company started in 1968, so there is a lot of trust that goes with the Linwood name."

WHAT IS THE PROCESS?

Linwood Custom Homes took the vision of the resort owners to build a bigger and better lodge, and has designed a lodge that will give both long-time guests and new arrivals something wonderful to celebrate.

- The new resort will consist of the very best solid Douglas fir timbers, Western Red cedar, and other natural elements.
- The designs have been approved.
- Linwood is assembling the factory direct materials to prepare the custom building package for shipping directly to the site.
- Once the package arrives on site, the construction will be conducted by a Linwood independent builder.

"We are extremely pleased to be a part of this meaningful project," says Bill Mascott, President of Linwood Custom Homes. "Our site-specific design and custom material package will keep the integrity of the former lodge intact, while making it even more spectacular."
